ALBERTA TOWNS AND VILLAGES HOLD ANNUAL MEETINGS, FEB. 8

The annual meetings of Alberta towns and villages will be held Monday, February 8.

Ratepayers are asked to attend these meetings to discuss community matters with representatives of councils. The annual meetings will not involve elections as these are now being held in the fall of each year.

Two Years Each In Penitentiary Meted Out To Lac La Biche Men

William Mahalcheon, 20, and Archie Viellette, 33, both of Lac la Biche were sentenced before Magistrate Franchuk on Monday, Jan. 25 to two years in Prince Albert penitentiary on a charge of breaking and entering. They both pleaded guilty to the charge.

The two men had been surprised by Const. Ben Rizzoli who was making a routine check of business places about 1:00 a.m. Jan. 23.

The culprits had gained entry to the Lac la Biche Mercantile through a rear window, had sawed bars off the door and rolled the safe outside, just ready to load it into their truck, when Const. Rizzoli appeared.

The men ran away on the appearance of the policeman but were recognized by Rizzoli who ordered them to stop. This they refused to do. Quick work on the part of Const. Calvert, who was patrolling another street, and Const. Rizzoli, with the help of the RCMP soon had the men in custody.

The safe, containing valuable records and some cash, was unharmed. The owners of the Mercantile Store wish to thank the police force for their efforts in seeking to maintain law and order in the town.

Miss Stan Speaks On Mental Health At WI Meeting

The librarian, Mrs. D. Joncas, reports that 45 new books have recently been added to the juvenile section of the library. It is now possible for adult readers to take four books a week on a membership card. This does not apply to students.

The hospital convener, Mrs. Linnell, reported that 21 toys had been presented to the children in hospital at Christmas time and a bouquet of flowers was given to the Sisters of St. Catherine's Hospital.

A letter was received asking the WI to find homes in which to billet the university mixed chorus when they present their concert on May 13.

The annual WI bingo will be held in March, the date to be announced later.

Miss Stan gave an interesting talk on the "Importance of Mental Health" and the "Prevention of Mental Disease" and showed two films entitled "So Little for the Mind" and "Mental Health in Alberta.".

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Mastaler. Mrs. B. McCutcheon will be present to describe the latest methods in home freezing and home decorating.

Old Friends Meet At Oshanyk Home

LAC LA BICHE — Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Oshanyk were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kwasny, their son Alan and daughter Mrs. Betty Pahalski and her little son Wayne, all of Athabasca.

Mr. Kwasny was best man at the Oshanyk's wedding 42 years ago and this was the first time they had met again after so many years. Needless to say they had a splendid visit.

Plamondon Rink Is Now In Operation

PLAMONDON — The local skating rink is now in full operation and season tickets are available.

Keeping a local skating rink in operation is a difficult job without the co-operation of all and unless use is made of the rink and fees and season tickets obtained the skating rink will not be able to pay expenses.

A new club house was built to make things more comfortable. So all local support is needed to keep the rink in operation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Alexsuik of Grassland were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Fuca.

Busy Year For Library Reported By Acting Librarian Mrs. Joncas

LAC LA BICHE — The public library, located in the town hall and sponsored by the Women's Institute, has completed a busy year, according to a report submitted by Mrs. E. Joncas, acting librarian.

The library was open to the public on 67 half days during the past year. With a membership of 680, approximately 20,800 books were in circulation during the year. Some 648 books were added to the library in 1959. Of this number 80% were for juveniles. About 100 books were discarded, due to wear and tear, and some 775 books were mended by Mrs. Joncas throughout the year. There are approximately 3,548 books in the library at the present time.

Mrs. Joncas, who has been working with the library since it was organized in 1946, heads the committee of nine women who give their time each week to check and record some 650 books handled each week. Some weeks well over 700 books have been checked off.

Library hours for the winter months are 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Thursday and Friday afternoons. After Easter, it is expected that one afternoon will be sufficient. This will be every Friday from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m.

HYLO HOME AND SCHOOL

Use Of Trees & Shrubs For Schools Advised By Agriculturist S. Powers

HYLO— S. Powers, district agriculturist of Lac la Biche was the guest speaker at the Hylo HSA meeting on Friday, Jan. 22, which was held in the Hylo School. Mr. Powers informed the group that society, in general, takes very little interest in improving school landscape and was pleased to hear that the Hylo HSA was considering the undertaking of such a project.

He mentioned that it was usually difficult to convince people that they should plant trees when there are so many all around. However trees in their natural state grow anywhere and everywhere but not always where you would like them to grow. Also the type you would like is seldom where you want it.

In Saskatchewan when you travel over miles of prairie you feel that you have come to an oasis in a desert when you finally reach some tree plantations. There they really prize trees as of great value in the way of windbreaks as well as beauty.

Now the first thing to remember if you decide to start planting, Mr. Powers stated, is to appoint a committee with a genuine interest in such a project. Otherwise, once started, it is easy to forget about the whole thing and this would mean failure right after a good start, for trees need care for four or five years. Therefore proper maintenance is necessary and ac-

Lac La Biche United Church Report Shows Financially Adequate Year

The 1960 annual meeting of the congregation of the Lac la Biche United Church was held Jan. 28 in Lac la Biche Memorial Hall. The meeting was preceded with a family dinner, attended by about 150 parents and children. Following the dinner the United Church choir led in the singing of several hymns and presented a couple of special harmonies. The children retired to the church for films while the business meeting was held.

Thanks were extended by the stewards to Alec Proctor for his singular contribution in the promotion and building of a garage on the manse premises.

The financial report of the Women's Association was received from Mrs. J. Stewart, secretary-treasurer. True to their usual form, the ladies reported an energetic and successful year.

The Sunday school report was presented by the superintendent, Mrs. H. Mawson, who indicated an increased enrolment and teaching staff. Thanks were tendered to the teachers, Mrs. L. Tatum, pre-school teacher; Mrs. S. Munro, Miss Donna Hamar and Miss Diane Pohranychny, primary teachers, and Miss Emilene Prun, a junior class teacher.

The CGIT and Explorer reports were presented by Mrs. R. Graham and Mrs. W. Breitkreuz, respectively, and the work and prospects of each outlined.

J. K. Olstad, the clerk, presented the report of the session, who are charged with the spiritual oversight of the United Church. Mr. Olstad reported on the activity of the United Church in 1959, and outlined special emphasis needed for 1960.

The election of officers resulted in M. McMillan becoming chairman of the committee of stewards, who are charged with the conduct of the church's business and finance. The other members elected to the stewards were J. Clarke and E. Makowichuk.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Lett, the church organist; the Ladies' Aid who provided the banquet, and the CGIT who served. All the officers of the church were thanked jointly. Herewith special thanks are extended to J. Williams for his efforts as chairman of the committee of stewards this past two years.

Use Of Trees And Shrubs For Schools Advised By Agriculturist S. Powers

tually requires comparatively little labor. Also children must be kept from destroying the young plants so protection in this regard would have to be provided.

BASIC PRINCIPLES

There are five basic principles for planning the grounds:

(1) Provide a tree background for the dwelling.

(3) Frame the view for both inlook and outlook.

(4) Provide suitable foundation planting.

(5) Maintain an open foreground of turf.

Ofcourse it is impossible to plant too elaborately around schools for the ball diamond or other playing areas must not be interfered with. Russian Poplar, Spruce and caragana planted around the school yard with a hedge between the teacherage and school would prove attractive. A drawback of the maple trees are their suckers and seedlings which would mean a considerable amount of labor to keep them off. Ideal would be to buy grown trees, four or five years old, from nurseries for planting and thus a good start would be made. For beauty and best results trees should not be planted closer than 10 feet. Trees are available for schools and farmers as well at Oliver and Brooks and orders for these should be sent at least a month before planting time.

Shrubs are used as boundary plantings to obtain privacy, screen unsightly objects and to give a measure of unity, thus serving as a frame and background. Large shrubs arranged in groups with smaller shrubs in front and between provide an appropriate boundary and also produce a pleasing variation in the skyline. It is important to remember that the effect desired is that of the whole foliage mass, so the shrubs chosen should be rapid growers, with average spreading habit and mid-green in color emphasis being placed on mass effect rather than beauty of individual plants.

SPECIMEN SHRUBS

Specimen shrubs, however, may be planted on specially selected locations for their individual beauty or as accent points. When used in this way they stand out singly and lend emphasis to the entire planting scheme. Select specimen shrubs that are neat, more or less erect or with a gracefully drooping habit of growth, or they must have some particularly attractive feature such as bloom, vari-colored foliage or ornamental berries. Finally don't plant specimen shrubs just anywhere or scattered all over for it is better to plant too few than too many.

The height of the boundary planting will depend upon the effect desired and shrubs must be selected accordingly. Likewise, while bloom is important and attractive, it should be of secondary consideration since the blossoms last, at best, but a short time.

SOIL PREPARATION

Now the soil preparation is the first and by no means the least important step. Shrubs, in general, require a thoroughly prepared, well drained soil fairly rich in plant nutrients and should be planted on land summerfallowed the year before to insure freedom from weeds and a reserve of moisture. They will die or make very poor growth in poorly prepared or weed infested soil.

Another thing to remember is if the plants arrive before the ground is prepared, they should be taken out of the bundle and "heeled in" until they can be planted. Heeling in is a simple process in which a trench is dug on a well drained spot, preferably on the north side of a building. The shrubs are separated from each other, set in the trench with the tops to the south and the roots are covered with moist soil. If a shady location is not available, it is well to shade the tops with straw, or some other covering, to protect them from the sun until they are planted.

The department of agriculture sends out ornamentals in bundles, tree, and they are shrubs that should flourish here, such as caragana, lilac and spiraea.

Mr. Powers concluded that he would be pleased to help in any way he could with the planning or other needed information.

Mrs. O. Meardi, president of the Hylo HSA, extended thanks to Mr. Powers on behalf of the association, for taking the trouble to attend the meeting.

During the business part of the meeting it was decided to purchase a 500-gallon tank, motor, pump lay.

It was also decided that the executive and skating rink committee will meet at a later date to fill out the forms regarding the wiring of the skating rink.

The circular from the association on the royal commission on education in Alberta was read and a study will be made of this.

New library shelves have been built and the library committee is to meet the following Wednesday to put the books in order.

A film "The Threshold" showing how your association can help Canadians to understand the school problems of new Canadians is scheduled for the next Home and School meeting.

Cinnamon buns and coffee, served by the lunch committee, concluded an interesting meeting.

Owl River

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ray, Sr., have gone to Bermuda for an extended visit.

Johnny Skyrpan has a new 48 passenger bus. Three buses convey children to the Owl River School. Mr. Stupiarick runs his bus from Big Bay and Mr. Sykes, principal of the school, makes the Tweedie run.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diesel and daughters of McMurry visited Mr. Diesel's father and other relatives here during the Christmas holidays.

ACFA Committee Presents Scheme

PLAMONDON — On January 27, Alex Berube, president of the recruiting committee of the ACFA, accompanied by Eugene Trottier, propagandist, and Alfred Rouleau, general manager of the Assurance Vie Desjardins Co., met a group of families of the Plamondon district.

The purpose of this meeting was the presentation of the ACFA's new scheme. The subscription to the ACFA now includes an insurance plan which offers security to all its members, that is to the families and to the youth. The new subscription plan will also make it possible for the French association to develop more rapidly and to work more efficiently.

Among those present were Rev. Fr. Croteau and Fr. Viel, pastors of Plamondon and Lac la Biche respectively. Emile Plamondon presided in the absence of Narcisse Menard who came in later, arriving from Edmonton. Everyone went home convinced of the great economical and social value of the new form of membership.

Judging from the keen interest during the meeting and the active participation from the floor, it is anticipated that the recruiting campaign to be held from February 7 to 21 will have great success.

COUNTY OF ATHABASCA

Annual Ratepayers Meeting Set For Athabasca, Feb. 20

The annual ratepayers' meeting will be held in Athabasca Community Centre on Feb. 20 at 1:00 p.m. Nominations will be received the same days and an election, if necessary, held under the provision of the act. B. C. Hart was appointed Returning Officer at the January meeting of the County of Athabasca. Enumerators were appointed for Electoral Divisions 2, 5 and 6, where a councillor for each will be elected this year, as Councillors Krajacic, Symyrozum and Shimonichek were named for one-year terms last year.

The January meeting opened with all councillors present, and the first part of the meeting dealt with routine, minutes, and busines therefrom.

On the afternoon of Jan. 13 the most important items dealt with was the Federal-Provincial Emergency Unthreshed Grain Assistance Policy. After some discussion it was decided that a committee of the whole council should handle the applications. It was stressed that the onus of filling these applications out was the farmers. The council has no responsibility in the matter, but as a matter of convenience to the farmer, they will assist and handle the applications. Any farmer who has threshed more than half his crop is not eligible.

Applications are available from the elevators, councillor of the Division, the Field Supervisor, the District Agriculturist. The forms must be filled out and returned to the county office as soon as possible as deadline for filing is February 29, 1960. Operators of farm units only may apply.

Field Supervisor Hans Armfelt was appointed to receive the forms in the county office and compile them for consideration of the council.

Another item of great interest was the application for a seed cleaning plant at Boyle. A letter from the seed crops branch, which has been contacted for more information, indicated that an area of 200,000 cultivated acres in an area with a radius of twenty miles should be available. One figure mentioned as an estimated cost was $50,000.

It was felt the land requirements were high, and the matter was left till the next meeting in order to get acreage figures. A copy of the department's letter will be sent to the Boyle Board of Trade, the body spearheading the movement.

A few points were cleared up in regard to Part 2 of the Provincial Five-Year Plan. This deals specifically with the recreational grants. Council was informed that the acreage around sub-divided area applied for this purpose only, as far as a population count was concerned. Where the rural development ended and the urban began, as the letter put it.

January 14 was mostly taken with meeting of the school committee. Following the adoption of the minutes, the Calling Lake garage was discussed, followed by a discussion regarding the setting up of centralized boards. There is a total of 89 districts and 11 schools. A decision was made to set up centralized boards where necessary and to revise them where they are already set up, but where more districts are now involved.

A request for school secretarial assistance was received and discussed and will be investigated further.

The sale by tender of Grassland Frains and Twin Spruce schools was considered. There were three bids received on the Grassland school and it was sold to the Community League with sufficient land for parking. For the Frains schoo six bids were in before the meeting. At near noon, several late bids were received, and they were al considered. Frains Pine Lodge had the highest bid. For the Twin Spruce school nine bids were received, all from private individuals, community organizations. This matter was left till after lunch, at which time it was decided to sell to Paul Kornak, who had the highest bid.

Subsequent to this consideration of the bids, a delegation was received from Frains, headed by Anton Hewko, John Phau, Stefan Hewko, Dan Schwetz, Dan Kolach, Andy Hewko, Paul Nykolyn, John Shyian, representing the Frains Community Centre.

While the committee was receiving this delegation, a telephone call from the department of education requested the committee to withhold any sale of the Frains school until the department could contact the committee by letter. The Frains school was therefore withdrawn from sale, and the previous motion rescinded. In the meantime, the committee urged the two organizations consolidate their ids and come to local agreement. meeting will be held.

A delegation was received from the bus drivers, Jim Smallwood and Mark Christensen, who appeared on behalf of the drivers in regard to the tardy receipt of the cheques. Various solutions were considered, and thoroughly discussed. One of the biggest items in the lowness of the issuance of the cheques was the non-receipt of the reports of the bus drivers' reports. The secretary was asked to send a letter to the principals and bus operators pointing out the importance of getting the reports in on time.

The accounts were passed for payment.

Various routine items were disposed of: the report on the contractors work in the schools; the STA seminar, report on wells at Ellscott, caretaking at Calling Lake, all of which was reported taken care of.

The Lac la Biche School Division had expressed a desire to meet with the county in regard to a transfer of lands in the Atmore area from the county to the Lac la Biche division. March 10 was agreed on as to the date of meeting.

A report was received that a school teacher was driving a school bus and the secretary was instructed to write. Alleged abuse of a school bus for a school party was discussed and will be investigated.

A request from the village of Boyle to reduce or do away with the special assessment was received. They will be notified the matter should be dealt with through the local board. There are three districts in the county with special assessments: Athabasca, Boyle and Colinton.

Several routine items followed: compassionate leave, replacement teachers, etc. and Superintendent Gault gave his monthly report. He spoke on the advisability of the county implementing visual aids teaching in the shape of TV programs. There are two excellent programs available, one by the CBC and one sponsored by the Department of Education. It was decided that, if the principal is willing, the program will be tried at Rochester.

He reported on the laggard student policy. He stressed the object was not to make the student leave school, but to induce him to learn to the capacity of his ability. No student has yet been asked to leave, he asserted. He had reports from three schools.

On the opening of the meeting Jan. 15, Mr. Gault continued his report. He was concerned with the accommodation of the schools for 1961 in Athabasca, Boyle and Smith, and asked the committee consider their needs in this direction. It was a lengthy report and very technical, and at its conclusion the school committee decided to form a sub-committee which will report back to the committee.

The question of allowing the use of the auditorium of the lower school at Athabasca for badminton was opened, but was left without decision until afternoon.

After lunch on Jan. 15 the meeting convened as a county council. Arrangements were made for the department of welfare to rent an office in the basement of the county building.

The report of the Municipal Inspector was read and acknowledged.

Albert Brauer, the foreman of the shop, was called in to give a report on the condition of the various machines, the estimated cost of the repair of each, and the advisability of trading some of them off before the repair bill was too high.

Doug. Foster, representing R. Angus (Alberta) Ltd., interviewed the council in regard to the purchase of two new cats.

Dr. J. M. Brown, chairman of the Athabasca and district public library, interviewed the council with a request for a grant. She quoted statistics which showed that the average circulation of books was 44 per day. Of this number, 90 per cent were in the under 12 group, and 80 percent of this group were from the rural areas attending Athabasca school. The council promised to consider the request, but perusal of the act produced the information there is no provision made for grants to library.

In the clean-up council session on Jan. 16, 40,000 board feet of bridge timbers were purchased, a number of complaints regarding roads, easements for RE lines, and the enumeration for the recreation grant were handled.

In the clean-up session of the school committee held on Saturday, applications for the position of building supervisor were considered. After some eliminations, the balance of the applications were left in the hands of a sub-committee for study and report.

Slipped Disc

By Dr. K. W. Tenove, St. Paul

More and more is being heard about the slipped or herniated or spinal disc, and results obtained on this type of case under Chiropractic care are very encouraging.

A recent research study of 1,000 slipped and herniated disc cases under Chiropractic care revealed the following: 49.6 per cent of the cases became well; 39.1 per cent were much improved; 7.9 per cent were slightly improved; 3 per cent showed no change; 0.4 per cent became worse.

Consolidation of the first three groups shows that 96.6 per cent of all cases became well or showed some improvement under Chiropractic care.

EARLY ATTENTION HELPS

This research study shows that the sooner cases report to a Chiropractor the more complete their results will be.

In groups which became well (49.6 per cent of all cases) the average length of time the condition existed was only 3.5 years. In those cases in which there was no change in the condition (3 per cent of all cases), the average length of time was 5.5 years.

Research study also showed that in the "well" group 77.6 per cent had had previous medical care, but 93.2 per cent of the "no change" group had been to medical doctors prior to reporting to a Chiropractor.

Co-operation of patient is another very important factor having a direct bearing on the outcome. The study revealed that the co-operation was good in 90.4 per cent of the cases who became well. In the cases which did not get better only 26 per cent were listed as giving good co-operation.

CHIROPRACTIC MERITS TRIAL

While, in extreme cases, surgical intervention may be necessary, this type of case is rare. There is much evidence that diagnosis of "herniated disc" is a catch-all for many low back disabilities. In fact there is much to indicate that most so-called "herniated disc" symptoms are nothing more than vertebral misalignments. Statistics show rapid recovery under Chiropractic care in the majority of cases, and such recovery would not have been possible if extensive pathology or severe trauma had been present.

Nevertheless, 483 out of 1,000 cases were reported medically diagnosed as "herniated disc or ruptured disc," and the remaining cases manifested the same outward symptoms. Since such a diagnosis can be confirmed only by surgery, and since few symptomatically diagnosed cases are later confirmed upon surgical intervention, it would seem all the more important that persons suspected of having a herniated disc condition consult a Chiropractor first.

STRUCTURE FUNCTION

To appreciate the Chiropractic procedure one must understand that the intervertebral disc grossly consists of an outside capsule which normally is a tough, white fibrous tissue holding an elastic pulpy mass.

The disc functions as a shock absorber, as a cartilage pad holding the spinal bone segments apart, and as a ligament holding them together.

The structure normally allows for great flexibility of the spine, while maintaining the bodies of the vertebrae in good alignment, regardless of the position of the body.

Herniation involves the bulging of the outside capsule so that the disc fails to perform its proper function.

THREE CAUSES

Because of the normal toughness of this tissue, the only three probable causes — for true herniation or rupturing of the disc, are:

3. Pathological weakness coupled with trauma. When pathological weakness is present, complete recovery is not possible unless the tissue regains its normal toughness.

33 YEARS ON SKID ROW

PRAYER FILLS JASPER MISSION'S NEEDS

For over 33 years, the sound of men's voices lustily singing gospel songs has been heard coming from a clean, but old, wooden building on Jasper Avenue. Edmonton's down-and-outers, the jobless, the wanderer who is trying to find himself again, come four nights a week for a cup of tea and jam sandwiches, they know will be served after they have heard a period of old fashioned preaching.

Within the shadow of the posh Macdonald Hotel, the Jasper Mission has been feeding the body and the soul of thousands for over three decades. This work of faith is carried on by its founder Sidney Pugh and his wife at 9665 Jasper Ave., who live in a small two-room suite in the basement of the mission.

The work was envisioned by Mr. Pugh back in 1926 when as a student from the Alliance Bible School in Toronto he was doing mission work in Edmonton. With the help of another student, now Dr. Robert Lennox, principal of the Presbyterian College in Montreal, the mission was started in a building that once stood in the space now used for parking behind the new wing of the Macdonald.

The work was and has remained unaffiliated with any church, but fundamental churches of the Protestant faith interested in evangelism have been co-operating in gospel services all through the years. Any financial support is voluntary, mostly from individuals, including some the mission has helped.

"The Lord has met all our needs," says Mrs. Pugh. "We never mention our need to anyone. We send out a letter once a year to those who have contributed and to our friends."

Indicative of this is the fact that three women have made a large contribution to the mission. When it moved to its present location in 1930, it was given free rent through Mrs. Colonel Saunders and her daughters Mrs. R. N. Dingwall and Mrs. R. P. Lefroy. It still enjoys this privilege.

Between Christmas and New Years food for a full course turkey dinner was provided by employees of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. where Mr. Pugh had worked for 13 years. He left in 1944 to devote his full time to the mission.

Full time meant 24 hours a day. A push of the finger on the bell at the front door would bring pajamaclad Mr. Pugh from his bed. For example:

It was three a.m. The policeman asked the poorly dressed, unshaven young man why he was ringing the bell of the mission.

"I must see Mr. Pugh," was the reply. "I'm under conviction of sin and I must speak to him about spiritual things."

"In that case, I'll help you get him," said the officer.

Recalling the meeting with the young man, Mr. Pugh said "I had the joy of leading him to a saving knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. His father was a Presbyterian minister in eastern Canada, and he went back there, last I heard."

An elderly man who was often seen in old clothes with his toes poking through holes in his shoes, had to be ejected several times over a period of years for making light of the meetings. He would work at odd jobs and sleep outside. Eventually his health failed and he underwent a number of operations. After soul-searching talks with Mr. Pugh he yielded his heart to Christ and after "he was saved it was good to hear him testify of his faith in God," said Mr. Pugh.

But the surprise came when he called Mr. Pugh to the hospital and summoned a lawyer. He then made out his will, although he died several years later. As a result the mission stands to realize upwards of $7,000 when the legal end of it has been cleared up.

This money will be used to carry on the mission, which is dedicated to reaching men whom city churches tend to leave alone. It is hardly enough to build with, unless in some miraculous way more were added to it. This would be [illegible] to God who has answered every material need the Pugh's have expressed in prayer.

Probably because there is no financial program, there is also only one active member on the board of directors, S. A. Keeble. Members of several other boards in the past 33 years have either gone to be with the Lord" or moved away.

Seldom does the mission deal with women. However, one who had really "hit the skids" and was in and out of one beer parlor after another, finally was invited to a mission meeting which is always open to the public.

She eventually made her decision for Christ and as a result of her completely changed life won her battle against drinking. She now is living at the west coast, and has since become a member of a Baptist church.

The Jasper Mission has a Sunday School with an enrollment averaging 68 children who are collected in a bus which can transport 50. The children largely come from non-Christian homes.

Averaging a service a day throughout the year, the jasper Mission attempts to reach men who have sunk deep in sin, and have lost hope in themselves and probably mankind, too.

Through sound, fundamental Bible teaching they feed the human soul, not forgetting food for the human body.

Over the years many have tasted the preaching, but digested only the food, and then gone on, unchanged, shackled to their humiliating vices and passions. On the other hand many have gone forward confessing their sins and yielding their lives to Christ, then turning their back on their former ways and again taking their rightful places in society.

These are the fruits of a labor of love harvested with God's help through unsung heroes like Sidney Pugh, humble, devoted servant of a risen Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Parents Of Guides Ask Investigation

The parents of Girl Guides in six south Edmonton packs want an investigation by the national office into the recent resignation of seven leaders of the Guide companies.

A local investigating committee headed by R. B. D'Esterre stated that resignations were submitted under duress and there was no justification for the provincial Guide commissioner's claims of unsatisfactory conditions.

The request for an investigation resulted from a meeting of 54 parents at the South Side Assumption Church last week. Some 180 children were affected when the Guide operations were suspended last October.

Doctrine Founded On Scriptures, Tradition, Dogmatic Decisions

This is the second in a series of three articles by Rev. Fr. N. Stetzenko, L.Th., rector of the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, Lac La Biche district. In last week's issue, Rev. Fr. Stetzenko outlined the history of his denomination. This week he explains doctrine.—Editor.

By REV. FR. N. STETZENKO,
Rector, Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, Lac la Biche

The Doctrine of the Holy Orthodox Church is founded on Holy Scriptures and the Holy Traditions and the dogmatic decisions of the Seven Ecumenical Councils. The Holy Scriptures are interpreted in accordance with the teachings of the Seven Ecumenical Councils and the Holy Fathers of the early Christian Church.

The Niceo - Constantinopolitan Creed is held only in its original form, that is without the Roman Latin addition of the "filiogue" phrase. Recognizing Christ as the only head of the earthly as well as the heavenly Church, the Holy Orthodox Church does not accept the dogmatic teaching of the Roman Catholic Church that the Pope is the special vicar of Christ on earth and the infallible head of His Church.

According to the teaching of the Holy Orthodox Church, infallibility belongs to the whole assembly of true believers, to the "ecclesia" or Church, which is represented by the Council of the Church, legally called together and whose decisions are confirmed by the concensus of the Church.

The Eastern Orthodox Faith contains what is necessary for our spiritual needs and for our salvation. It is One, Holy, Universal, and Apostolic. It has maintained the same sacraments for twenty centuries, the same pure teachings of Christ, the same pastors who trace their descent by uninterrupted succession from the Holy Apostles and, through them, from Jesus. It is called Orthodox because it firmly believes and truly teaches (as the Greek word Orthodoxia means a true teaching). It teaches:

1. that the world is not self-created but is the work of one God.
2. that after death, man's body goes to earth, and the soul, which is immortal, is presented before God and, according to its actions, pre-enjoys happiness or pre-suffers punishment until the General Judgement,
3. that there are three Divine Persons in God, distinct, yet equal,
4. that the father is neither begotten, nor proceeds from anyone,
5. that the Son is begotten from the Father, of the very essence of the Father. He is God and also truly man like us, because He assumed human nature from the Blessed Virgin Mary, except for sin. He died on the cross to save mankind and He ascended into heaven. He will come again "to judge the living and the dead". Eastern Orthodox Churches believe in the procession of the Holy Spirit from the Father alone. They honor Mary as the Mother of God. They honor the nine orders of Angels and they honor the Saints. They do not define as dogma the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary, but hold true catholic doctrine of the birth of Christ. They reject the doctrine of the surplus merits of the Saints and the doctrine of indulgence. They revenrence relics of the Saints, pictures of holy subjects and Cross, but forbid the use of carved images. They accept seven Sacraments: Baptism, Anointing (Confirmation or Chrismation), Communion, Penance, Holy Orders, Marriage and Holy Unction.

Baptism of either infants or adults is practiced. The Sacrament of Anointing (Confirmation) is administered immediately after Baptism, and the chrismated infant or adult is thereafter a full communicant in the Holy Eucharist.

The Doctrine of Transubstantation is taught. In the Eucharist leavened bread is used, which is consecrated and placed in the consecrated Chalice from which all lay members of the Church receive the Holy Body and the Precious Blood by means of a spoon for which they prepare by the Sacrament of Penance and after Priestly Absolution. Children, under the age of seven years, receive the Sacrament of Communion without Confession.

Holy Unction is administered to the sick and not alone to those in danger of death. The Church rejects the doctrine of purgatory but believes in the beneficial effect of prayer for the dead by the living and for the living by the dead. The Church rejects the doctrine of predestination and considers that for justification both Faith and Good Works are necessary.

In the Orthodox Church membership has two distinct, but frequently confused meanings. All persons who are baptized and have received the Sacrament of Chrismation are communicant members of the Church and participate in the Eucharist. Parish membership, in some churches, is counted by males over 21 years of age rather than by the communicants, because in these Churches the head of each family is the voting member of the parish congregation. In the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church of Canada parish membership (voting members) is for those over the age of 18 and both sexes are eligible.

Parenthood Without Hokum

By Howard Whitman

PART 10

What Time To Get Home

It may surprise a good many parents, but there is mounting evidence that teen-agers really don't want to stay out as late as they lead us to believe. What's more, we actually help them by setting a deadline. Here are two typical cases:

Arthur, age 16, went out on Saturday nights with the other boys in his crowd. For a time he came home about midnight. But after a while he began staying out until 12:30 or 1 o'clock. When eventually he didn't drift in until 2 o'clock one Sunday morning his father decided it was time for a serious chat.

I don't want to be the first one to break it up and go home. I don't want to seem like a child," Arthur candidly explained.

A long discussion bore out that each member of Arthur's crowd felt the same way. The increasing lateness of the hour stemmed from each boy's natural desire to prove that he was not a child anymore but quite a man. Thus as the weeks went by there was virtually a contest to top one another in staying out late.

Howard Whitman

Arthur's father got in touch with the fathers of the other boys and all agreed that 12:30 would be the deadline. The next Saturday night when the boys met, each one understood that there would be a good full evening of fun—but not an endurance contest. Since 12:30 was the deadline for all of them, none need vie anymore to prove his manliness.

"Arthur actually seemed relieved by the arrangement," his father reported. The boy's relief is quite understandable. He no longer had to run the gauntlet between his parents' disapproval and the need to prove his manliness to his friends.

Now the case of Carol, age 15. When she first was permitted to go out with boys to school dances and to friends' parties, her mother thought she was helping the child by taking the attitude, "I'll leave it up to your good judgment, Carol. You come in when you think best."

It wasn't long before the plan failed and Carol's mother had to set a specific coming-home time for each event. The failure wasn't Carol's fault. Since the decision had been left up to her, the boy she was with kept prodding her to stay out another half hour, and another, and another. She was forced into the delemma of being a mamma's girl on the one hand or [illegible] in her mother's trust on the other.

[illegible] made her very uncomfortable about going out altogether and she, too, was greatly relieved when her mother gave her a set time to come home—not an absolutely rigid time but a reasonable time, give or take half an hour.

THEY LIKE IT

Experienced family counselors repeatedly find that this is how youngsters react if the arrangement is explained to them in a friendly, reasonable way. Director Clarence Pretzer, of the Family Service Society of Metropolitan Detroit, reported, "We find that it is easier on the child if the coming-home time is set. It is also protection for the young girl. Rather than face challenges or arguments, she can simply tell her boyfriend that she is required to be home at 11 o'clock or midnight as the case may be."

Also, the boyfriend is relieved of the burden of proving what a big-shot he is by keeping the girl out until all hours.

Pretzer told a group of teen-agers granduating from high school who according to local custom, wanted to stay up until dawn on graduation night. A group of parents said, "Okay, we'll stay up all night with you." Youngsters and chaperones went to a dance, then the country club, then a hay-ride, and on through the night. One of the mothers who went along reported afterward, "The kids were simply trapped in their own wish. They didn't have any fun at all after midnight. They were dead tired."

So perhaps youngsters, like adults, do like to stay out ridiculously late once in a while but when they do they soon discover—again, like adults—that it's not all it's cracked up to be.

SHOULD BE FLEXIBLE

Most counselors agree that coming-home times should be flexible, but as one of them put it, "The child should not feel that if he doesn't open the door at precisely 1 p.m. he will be shut out of the house." It is a good idea to take the youngsters into the discussion with you when these times are set. You may be pleasantly surprised at how reasonable they can be, if reasonably approached.

A group of parents in Bridgeport, Conn., told me of a unique taying up worrying until the ystem they had developed to avoid youngsters got in (as what parent doesn't?). If Junior is to be home at 12:30 the alarm clock is set for 1 a.m. (giving him a half-hour's leeway) and placed at the top of the stairway.

Then Mother and Dad go calmly off to sleep. If Junior arrives on schedule, or thereabouts, he simply comes up the stairs and turns off the alarm clock and proceeds to bed, while Mother and Dad go right on sleeping. If, however, Junior isn't in by 1 o'clock the alarm clock clangs and, as one father put it, "Then we wake up and start worrying."

Second to staying out late, taking the family car is a major friction point. Here, the modern counselor espouses the view that use of the family car is not a privlege to which the teen-ager is automatically entitled, but rather a privilege he earns. This is as realistic as the fact that his mother and father aren't entitled to the use of a car either, unless they earn it.

TOO MANY HI-JINKS

Test after test has proven that youngsters, from the standpoint of mechanical ability and reaction time, are better drivers than adults. But often their short suits are attitude and judgment. The automobile, instead of a vehicle of transportation, becomes an instrument for joy-riding and sometimes for racing and hi-jinks.

One father told me of his youngster driving 35 miles for a hamburger. Another said his youngster had left a party and spent most of the evening driving around the block with 14 hooting kids hanging out of the car on all sides.

The automobile has vastly complicated the dating custom, opening as it does the door to all manner of temptations and hazards. So knotty is the problem that Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman, of Cleveland, has come to the conclusion that raising the driving age is the only way out.

But for parents who simply want to meet the problem as best they can, the following suggestions summarize the points most frequently made by family advisers:

1. The youngster should participate in the maintenance of the family car if he wishes to participate in the use of it. An occasional washing, or cleaning of the interior, gives the young member of the family a healthy sense of proprietorship.

EXPLAIN THE COST

2. All details of the initial cost of the car, the cost of upkeep and maintenance, the cost of insurance and repairs, should be explained to the youngster. This will encourage a sense of responsibility and an appreciation of the property values involved.

3. Just as the adult's use of an automobile is conditional upon his compliance with the rules of society, so the youngster's use of it should depend on his compliance with the rules of family.

No parent should hesitate to deny use of the car for a week or a month if the privilege of using it is abused; nor should any parent withhold the reward of additional use of the car where a good sense of responsibility has been shown.

4. The rules of safe driving, the danger of accidents, and liability for damages should of course be explained. But even more important are frequent heart-to-heart talks about attitudes toward driving. No youngster who views an automobile as a device for showing-off and Cain-raising should be permitted to use one—both for the sake of his own life and the lives of others.

New Case Tractor Line On Display By Northern Alberta Dealerships

The new 1960 Case tractor line, which goes on display in February at local Alberta Case Dealerships, ranks first when measured by the features a farmer wants most in a tractor, according to N. A. Bloom, sales manager, of the J. I. Case Company, Edmonton. Mr. Bloom says "The 1960 Case tractors give farmers the best combination of horsepower, price, ease of operation, price per horsepower, convenient speeds, and weight—the six features farmers ranked most important in a recent national independent survey."

In addition, the 1960 Case line offers farmers greater horsepower in every plow class, plus a choice of either diesel or spark ignition engines in every size. LP-gas engines are available in all sizes except the 3-plow 430 series.

"Some models of the 1960 line provide horsepower increases over previous models of as much as 20%," Mr. Bloom stated.

"This year, Case is offering diesel engines in the 3 and 4-plow tractor sizes," according to Mr. Bloom. "These are all-new, American-built Case diesels, especially engineered for farm tractor service, and are characterized as moderate-speed, long-stroke engines with plenty of the lugging power for which Case engines have long been famous," he points out.

Case diesel engines all incorporate highly efficient combustion systems that provide maximum fuel economy, plus efficient fuel protection systems that avoid costly maintenance problems. All are direct-starting, with electric preheater built into the intake manifold for easy cold weather starting. They incorporate such well-known Case diesel engine features as sturdy ribbed block, extra-heavy induction-hardened crankshaft, and maximum main bearing area.

All 1960 Case tractor models, except the new 3-plow 430 Series and the giant 6-plow 930 Series, are available in either direct drive or famous Case-o-matic Drive, which provides up-to-double drawbar pull through the application of a torque converter.

Several models of the new Case line are now on display at J. I. Case dealerships in Alberta, and farmers are invited to come in for a first hand examination at any time, Mr. Bloom said.

You'll certainly drive a long way before you find one of T.C.A.'s new DC8's at an Imperial Esso service station. But they're important Imperial customers just the same.

The jet and the family car—together they mean lower gasoline prices

The new DC8 jets are powered by a special jet fuel, as carefully tailored for its job as the gasoline for your car.

Today gasolines and jet fuels are only two types of a whole range of products—over 600 of them—made by Imperial from petroleum.

This efficiency in getting everything out of every gallon of crude oil is an important reason for lower fuel prices—whether for a DC8, a jalopy or the new family car.

Gasoline is a bargain: in the last five years the average price of things people buy has gone up nearly 16 per cent, while gasoline has actually gone down about half of one per cent.*

Found In Coma, John Benesiewick Dies In Hospital

LAC LA BICHE — John Benesiewick, aged 69, passed away in the St. Catherine's Hospital early Friday morning without regaining consciousness after being found lying on the floor of his home in a coma earlier in the week.

The elderly man, who lived alone a short distance out of town, was found by Harold Mawson, while delivering fuel oil in the neighborhood, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Mawson drove into the man's yard to turn around and noticed the absence of tracks in the fresh snow around the door. Since Mr. Benesiewick was not in the habit of being away from home for any length of time Mr. Mawson decided to check on the old man's welfare.

He found the door locked and on peering in a window, saw the man lying on the floor near his stove, clad only in his night attire.

Returning to town immediately, he reported to the authorities. Dr. Cadzow, coroner, and Ted Mackriss went at once to the man's home where they found him in an unconscious state with his hands and feet badly frozen. It is believed he had been lying there for some 14 hours.

He was brought to the hospital but passed away early Friday. It is thought the man was unable to relight the oil burner when it went out and died of exposure.

Mr. Benesiewick was born in Poland and had lived in this area for some 20 years. His wife passed away some years ago. He is survived by two sons and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Patrick of Thorsby.
